District sets target date

Basic skills required for graduation

By Lynne Locke
Chaffey Joint Union High School District is working on the third step in a process to increase students' skills in the areas of basic reading, writing and arithmetics, according to Superintendent Mike Dirksen. The district has set a target date of 1981 for the first group of students to meet new graduation standards in various educational areas. A district task force is presently determining the standards which students will have to fulfill in order to receive diplomas.

The first two steps in the process included a survey of parent, student and teacher opinions about students' competency in various educational areas and a task force report proposing the formation of skill standards for graduation.

Both the opinion survey and task force report indicated a "need to improve in the area of basics," Dirksen said and noted the district board of trustees has approved the concept of competency levels as a way to improve student abilities in the areas of communication and computation.

Communication competencies fall into the areas of listening, speaking, reading, writing, and study with some 50 individual skills ranging from following oral or written directions to composing a "coherent" paragraph.

Computation competencies range from use of fractions to reading an income tax table. The 37 computational skills fall into the areas of whole numbers, fractions, decimals, per cents, measurement, and applications (such as making change).

Many of the skills can be learned in required courses, but the task force recommended that interdisciplinary programs be established so that students have more than "brief, isolated" learning experiences.

The competency task force expects to spend several months developing administrative procedures, inservice programs for teachers, and courses for students who fail to meet the competency levels.

The district tentatively plans to administer the computational skills test on a pilot basis in early 1977 followed by a review of the test and other materials and any necessary revision.

The entire program of competency levels will be implemented in the fall of 1977 with the incoming freshman class who will be the first students expected to meet all of competency levels by the time they graduate in 1981.

Students in the graduating classes of 1977-80 will not be required to meet all of the skill requirements but will be exposed to the program as much as possible, Dirksen said.

The skill level requirements will be the same for all district students including those in adult, continuation and alternative schools, but each school will be responsible for developing its own program to enable students to learn the required skills.

"The real challenge will be for the classroom teachers to do all in their power to get every student through (to competency) the first time around," Dirksen said noting that students doing remedial work have additional problems learning because of their feelings of failure.

The task force report notes the need for a certificate of completion of a "differentiated diploma" for those students incapable of meeting the skill requirements.

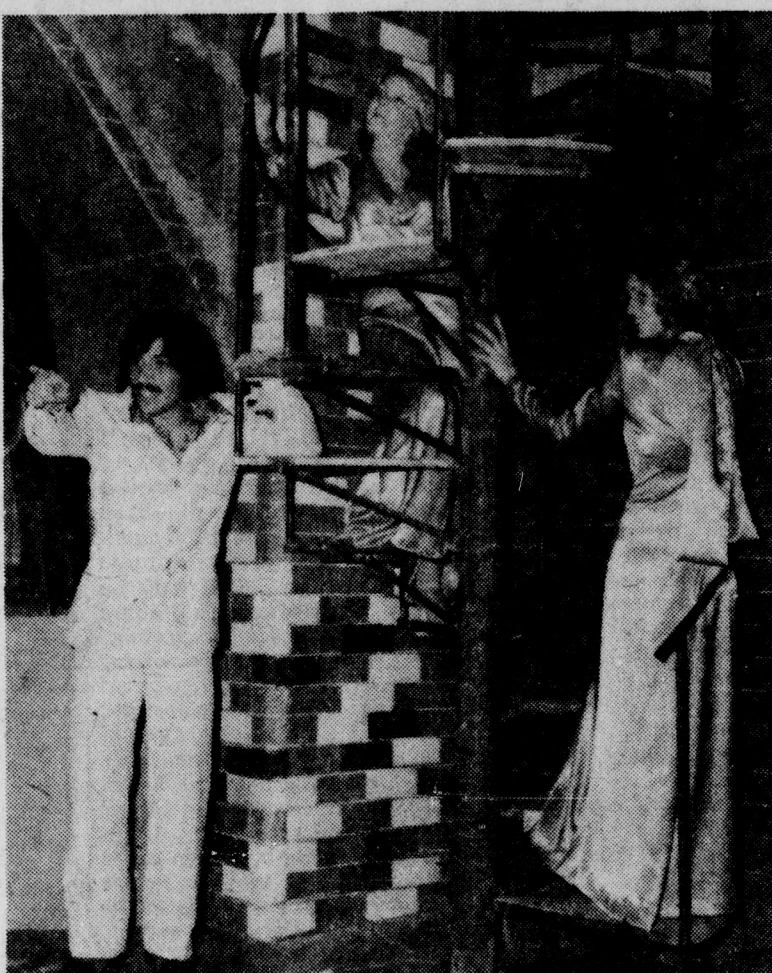

"Since the American educational system is based on accepting into a high school all students, regardless of intellectual capability or diligence, it may be that more than a few students will never achieve the competencies to make them eligible to receive a regular diploma," the report states.

Dirksen said establishment of an alternate diploma will take some study to determine what the special diploma will mean and how it will be designated.

Other areas still to be implemented include an extensive record-keeping system to keep track of each student's progress toward meeting the skill requirements. The district expects to use paraprofessionals to maintain the records.

Because of a box-office sell-out, an extra performance will be given 8:30 p.m. Nov. 14 also. The adult musical will be presented in a cabaret-like atmosphere with the audience on stage with singers, dancers and mimists. (Photo by Lynne Locke)

Local children overcome handicaps

By Peggy Olsen
At birth, Joey was barely alive. Although successful in his fight for survival, his brain was damaged and he was afflicted with a form of cerebral palsy.

At age 2 Joey was enrolled in the preschool program at Casa Colina Hospital's Children's Developmental Service Center. Considered a "floppy baby," he could not walk or talk. He was also blind.

But, according to Dr. Elizabeth Neumann, center director, "Joey was an amazing little boy." He learned to control his muscles, walk, feed himself, even see. He discovered color, numbers, and how to match a variety of objects.

Now 5 years old, Joey is enrolled in a public school kindergarten class for children with delayed language development. But, Dr. Neumann predicts, he will advance to a regular class in a few years.

She attributes Joey's miraculous achievement not only to skilled staff members at Casa Colina but also his "marvelous parents" and to Joey's "own unique stubborn quality which enables him to overcome handicaps."

Many children like Joey are achieving their fullest potential at the Casa Colina Center. Located in Pomona, it serves families from surrounding communities, including Upland, Montclair, Cucamonga and Alta Loma.

Children with neuromotor handicaps; orthopedic and convulsive disorders and other similar problems are enrolled in the infant stimulation program for babies from newborns through 18 months, or the therapeutic preschool classes for children 18 months through 6 years.

The Casa Colina program is different from many programs for handicapped children since it emphasizes each child's strengths, according to Barbara Acord, classroom coordinator - trainer and family counselor.

"Children are children first, handicapped second and we all prefer to be known by our strengths rather than our handicaps," Ms. Acord said and added, "We give that privilege to our children."

Often the Casa Colina staff is the first to tell parents their child has strengths since other programs tend to emphasize handicaps, problems and limitations, she noted. The preschool program enables the children to use their strengths to overcome their deficits.

Under the direction of Dr. Neumann, the infant stimulation program is conducted by pediatric consultant, Dr. John Wilcox, counselor Shirley Acosta, and occupational therapist Betty Nelson.

A relatively new concept, the program is designed to stimulate the development of "high risk" infants who are delayed in their physical, mental or emotional development.

The delay is often, but not always, a result of some difficulty during the birth process, according to Mrs. Acosta. The Casa Colina staff endeavors "to fill in the gaps" in the hope that the condition will not become permanent, she said.

Each infant is assessed according to his or her individual development of fine and gross motor and social skills. Staff members then prepare a program designed to get children to the next step in development.

The child's program is coordinated with activities which the mother enjoys because she is trained to help stimulate the development of her infant.

Often video tapes are made of the mother and child as they work together. Frequently, after viewing the tape, the mother suggests a better method for achieving a goal, Dr. Neumann said.

All children need balanced physical, mental and social stimulation, commented Dr. Wilcox. "And handicapped children need it in super abundance."

Children in the infant stimulation program are sometimes placed in the preschool classes which are co-sponsored by the Pomona Unified School District.

Twelve moderately to severely or orthopedically handicapped children, 18 months to 3½ years old, are enrolled in the class taught by Mary Ann Read.

Following assessment of their development, individual programs are designed to improve the gross and fine motor, perceptual, conceptual and personal - social skills development of each child.

"Communication is the basic component of a good preschool program," Mrs. Reed commented. Thus, she attempts to give each child as many chances to communicate as possible. Recently, she has incorporated sign language into the curriculum.

"It is a good method for communication because children love finger games and sign language is an extension of these activities," she said.

Mrs. Reed's students have learned different parts of the body by tracing hands and feet, and have learned how to wash hands and brush teeth. They have experimented with paint, glue, corn meal, sand and mud.

Children 3 to 6 years old with moderate neurological problems are enrolled in Joanne Parkham's class. They are expected to enter regular kindergarten classes and most do, commented Dr. Neumann.

The Town Crier

Camping ok in city parks?

To help citizens of Upland better understand their city's responsibilities and services and to get answers on city government, John Shoemaker, Upland community relations coordinator, is bringing City Hall to the people through the courtesy of the Upland News. The column "The Town Crier" is designed to be informative on all issues of city government.

To reach "The Town Crier," write: Community Relations, City of Upland, 460 N. Euclid Ave., Upland, CA 91786. Persons should include their name, address and telephone number. Only initials will be listed in the column.

QUESTION: Can you tell me if it is permissible to camp overnight in the city parks? B.K.

ANSWER: All municipal parks in the city of Upland, with the exception of San Antonio Park at Mountain and 24th Street, are closed from 11 p.m. until sunrise of the following morning every day. No one can remain in any city park during these hours except as noted below.

Overnight camping is permitted in San Antonio Park. Persons who enter and remain with any municipal park in the city, except San Antonio Park, between 11 p.m. and sunrise of the following morning are guilty of a misdemeanor. Persons charged with a violation of this section shall be cited in the manner prescribed for citation for misdemeanors as set forth in the California State Penal Code.

QUESTION: When may a vehicle be removed from the city's streets?

ANSWER: To begin with, let me say that any regularly employed and salaried officer of the Upland Police Department may remove or cause to be removed:

— Any vehicle that has been parked or left standing upon a street or highway at the same location for 72 or more consecutive hours.

— Any vehicle standing upon any street, alley or avenue in the city for a longer period than one hour between 1 a.m. and 6 a.m. except in cases in which the permission of the police is first obtained to park during the hours above-mentioned; however, this does not apply to vehicles of the police, fire or municipal public service departments or to vehicles of any regularly licensed physician when actually engaged in making professional calls; however because of the present shortage of "off-street" parking, this does not apply to transient guests of hotels and rooming houses who park in front of or near their hotel or rooming house. A transient is defined as one who remains a guest of a hotel or rooming house for a period not exceeding 30 days. The proprietor of all hotels or rooming houses, or his or her agent shall immediately upon registration of such transient notify the Police Department of the transient's name and the make and license number of the transient's motor vehicle.

Any vehicle which is parked or left standing upon a street or highway between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. when such parking or standing is prohibited by city ordinance or resolution and signs are posted giving notice of such removal.

Any vehicle which is parked or left standing upon a street or highway where the use of such street or highway or a portion of it is necessary for the cleaning, repair or construction of the street or highway or for the installation of underground utilities or where the use of the street or highway or any portion is authorized for a purpose other than the normal flow of traffic or where the use of the street or highway or any portion is necessary for the movement of equipment, articles or structures of unusual size and the parking of such vehicle would prohibit or interfere with such use or movement; provided, that signs giving notice that such vehicle may be removed are erected or placed at least 24 hours prior to the removal.

Incorporation Forum

Steps to cityhood

EDITOR'S NOTE: Citizens of Alta Loma, Cucamonga and Etiwanda are studying incorporation proposals to combine the three communities into one city.

Reasons given for incorporation range from demand for more public services, desire for more local control over services, and the need for more direct participation in changing land uses and planning procedures.

These concerns affect all residents, industrial and commercial firms and other land owners.

Yet many citizens are not aware of the events which led the Tri-Communities Incorporation Committee (TCIC) to file for incorporation with the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFAC).

This article, by TCIC member Catherine Bridge of Alta Loma, will attempt to provide some of that background. Additional information will be presented in a panel discussion by TCIC members and a county incorporation expert 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Carnelian School, Alta Loma.

By Catherine Bridge
Citizens are being told that incorporation of the three communities of Alta Loma, Cucamonga and Etiwanda is the best protection against "annexation by one of the surrounding cities."

The surrounding cities must have the approval of residents of an area (or of the landowners if the population is less than 12 registered voters) in order to annex the area.

But annexation to a city's sphere of influence does not require an election even though becoming part of the sphere of influence usually determines the area's future.

In 1972 a large portion of what historically had been within the community of Etiwanda was annexed to Fontana's sphere of influence. This sphere of influence annexation determined the future of the area.

In the gradual development of public services (such as extension of water lines), the area is bound into the government and policy of the city, eventually to be brought into the city limits as development occurs.

Annexation crisis

This event brought about what has been called the crisis in the tricommunity. The annexation was followed by moves by Ontario to bring Cucamonga, south of Eighth Street, into its sphere of influence. Upland requested to include the entire tricommunity in its sphere of influence.

At the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFAC) hearings on these proposals, there was a strong negative reaction by the affected citizens, land owners and local organizations.

Consequently LAFAC, in December 1972, agreed to allow the people of the three communities a one-year period to investigate their future direction and government.

The boundaries of the tricommunity were protected by a moratorium which did not allow surrounding cities to enlarge their spheres of influence into the tricommunity area.

A citizens group (composed of local organizations and representatives of fire and water districts) studied the situation and recommended to LAFAC that a sphere of influence for the tricommunity be established under a municipal advisory council (MAC), which is advisory to the county Board of Supervisors.

Tricommunity MAC
A tricommunity MAC was formed with the cooperation of LAFAC and the supervisors. Since 1973 MAC representatives and other local organizations have reported annually to LAFAC.

LAFAC has continued the tricommunity sphere of influence on the basis of indications that the three communities want to work together to provide public services.

Cooperative efforts have included a successful election to combine the Cucamonga and Alta Loma fire districts into the Foothill Fire Protection District. The same election extended the fire protection to cover Etiwanda as well.

In fact, the election consolidated four separate agencies. Some 70 per cent of the voters favored the consolidation even though the action increased tax rates.

County Service Area 50 (CSA-50) was also increased, by citizen request, to provide parks and recreation throughout the tricommunity area. The addition of the high assessed valuation of Cucamonga and Etiwanda allowed the CSA-50 tax rate to drop from 11 cents to 7 cents.

A random opinion poll taken in the tricommunity indicated that 66 per cent of those polled would favor incorporation if it were financially possible. That percentage is very close to the percentage of local voters who favored consolidation of the fire districts.

The 1973 economic feasibility study showed that the three communities could incorporate together at a higher level of services without an increase in the tax rate.

Based on these four findings, LAFAC extended the sphere of influence of the Alta Loma - Cucamonga - Etiwanda Municipal Advisory Council until March 1977.

Citizens group
The next stage in the incorporation investigation occurred in the fall of 1975 when a citizens group was formed (sponsored by the Alta Loma Community Chamber of Commerce, the Cucamonga District Chamber of Commerce and the Etiwanda Service Club).

The LAFAC sphere of influence is policy only and does not provide the protection of a legally recognized boundary, so the citizens group decided to start proceedings which would allow local citizens to voice their opinion on the proposal of a three-community city composed of Alta Loma, Cucamonga and Etiwanda.

The citizens group, which adopted the name Tri-Community Incorporation Committee (TCIC), is made up of volunteers from all three communities and has an elected steering committee of three representatives from each community.

A 1975 update of economic feasibility study confirms that the three communities can incorporate with a higher level of services at no increase in the tax rate.

To incorporate at today's level of minimal services would allow a good-sized drop in the property tax.

With this information the TCIC filed to begin procedures to incorporate the communities of Alta Loma, Cucamonga and Etiwanda with a satisfactory increase in services and local control, but without an increase in the tax rate.

TCIC members feel that local control of planning, zoning and public services is urgent and long overdue especially with the extreme rate of growth and development, the competition of the Devore Freeway, and the possible impact of Expo '81.

Public hearings
TCIC is now waiting for notification of the required hearings before the Environmental Review Board in December and LAFAC in January.

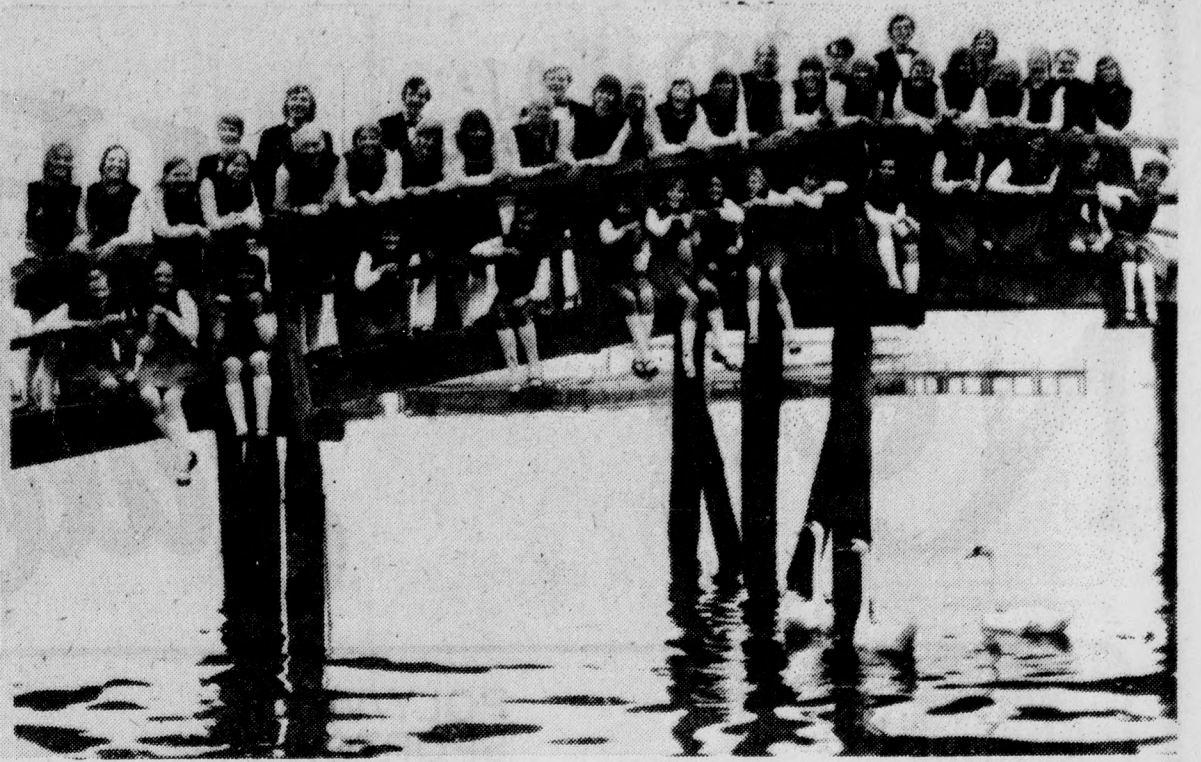

Because of the great need for local controls and because of the excellent economic base provided by the variety of land uses in the tricommunity area, TCIC is confident that LAFAC will approve its proposal for the incorporation of Alta Loma, Cucamonga, and Etiwanda into one city.

Then will come the process of legal petitioning and hearings followed by election, hopefully in November 1977. The election will not only create a new city, but voters will also choose the new city council.

Council members will then determine the location of the city's administration building, hire an administrative staff, and begin to determine the city ordinances which will ultimately preserve and reinforce the high quality style of life — resting on solid economic foundations — the people of Alta Loma, Cucamonga, and Etiwanda have had in the past and ought to have in the future.

CHILDREN'S CHOIR — The second event of the Pomona Valley Community Concert Association's 1976-77 season will feature the Obernkirchen Children's Choir 8 p.m. Friday in Gardiner Spring Auditorium at Chaffey High School, Ontario. The young singing group, characterized by Welsh poet Dylan Thomas as "Angels in Pigtales," performs multilingual choral programs of music ranging from the classic to contemporary and popular folk songs. For information call (714) 986-5789.

Workshop to celebrate anniversary

The tenth anniversary of Pomona Valley Workshop will be observed Friday, with an open house at the facility, located at 4607 Brooks St., Montclair.

Refreshments will be served and tours provided through the 13,000-square-foot facility while workers man their stations to demonstrate their jobs.

In addition to the tours, office manager Barbara Warford said the staff plans to have a historical display of the workshop, with pictures and written narratives of the shop depicting its progression from its early beginnings to the present time. This is aimed at providing a nostalgic memory for those who have been with the association from its infancy as well as an interesting source of information for those who are unfamiliar with the workshop and its progression.

Pomona Valley Workshop, was founded in November 1966 through the efforts of nineteen parents who were concerned for the welfare of their mentally retarded children.

Health Tips

Immunize children

EDITOR'S NOTE: Health Tips is a column of the California Medical Education and Research Foundation, prepared and edited by physician members of the California Medical Association. It is reprinted by this newspaper as a public service.

For years, immunization of children was widespread.

As immunizations virtually wiped out such childhood diseases as polio, many parents became complacent and have failed to have their children immunized.

Consequently, the immunization level of our childhood population has dropped and the prospect of a return of the almost forgotten childhood infectious diseases is a real threat. All parents should make sure that their children are properly protected. Adults should also be aware of the immunizations they need.

Polio, tetanus, diphtheria and measles are the four diseases for which immunizations are the most essential. Infants should also be immunized against pertussis (whooping cough).

Polio

Polio was, for good reason, the "dread disease" of a generation ago. Immunization has greatly reduced the incidence in the United States.

A basic series of three trivalent oral vaccine doses is recommended at ages 2, 4 and 6 months. Boosters are recommended at 18 months of age and when entering school. These may be given concurrently with DPT (diphtheria, pertussis, tetanus), although many physicians prefer to separate the two. Additional boosters for polio are not necessary except for travel to an area where the disease is common.

Universal immunization of children will provide excellent protection to adults. However, adults with unusual exposure to polio should also be immunized.

There is less than one chance in a million of suffering paralysis as a result of polio vaccine — comparable to the risks of transportation, medications or even certain foods. This risk is small indeed in relation to the vaccine's extraordinary success in curbing polio in the population as a whole.

Tetanus

This is an uncommon disease but may be caused by a variety of wounds, especially those occurring in gardens.

Diphtheria

This disease is now rare only because of immunization. It still does occur, however, and is very dangerous.

Diphtheria and tetanus vaccinations (toxoids) are usually given in combination with pertussis (whooping cough) vaccine — basic series and two boosters prior to entering school.

Older children and adults receive only diphtheria and tetanus toxoid (DT) in a more dilute form. Adults as well as children should be protected against diphtheria and tetanus. Boosters are recommended every 10 years.

Measles

The extreme severity of this disease and its complications together with the continuous success of immunization makes measles immunization essential. It is given at 1 year of age; if given earlier it is not reliable.

Very mild reactions, such as fever and rash, sometimes occur; serious reactions are rare. Almost every unimmunized child will have measles by early school years. If a tuberculin test is planned for age 1 year, it should be given prior to or at the same time the measles immunization is given as the latter can cause false reading of the skin test a few days after inoculation.

The preceding immunizations are the essential ones. Other vaccines are available and may be useful.

Rubella

Rubella is a mild childhood disease. About 85 per cent of adults are immune, even if they have no history of the disease.

The only serious result of rubella is the destructive effect on the unborn baby following infection of the mother in early pregnancy. For this reason — for the protection of the mother and child — it is commonly recommended that all children be immunized at 1 year of age or later with rubella vaccine. It is not known whether immunity will persist in childbearing years. Some physicians may postpone vaccination to preadolescent years and then vaccinate only females. Adults who are not immune may be immunized at any age, but women should not receive the vaccine during pregnancy or during the two to three months immediately preceding pregnancy.

A current recommendation is that all unimmunized children in a household where a pregnant woman resides be immunized against rubella as they are the most likely potential carriers.

Mumps

This is usually a mild disease in childhood with almost no serious symptoms except discomfort. Deafness in one ear is a rare complication. In adult males, mumps may cause painful swelling of the testicles, but fear of sterility is rarely justified. There are no special risks for women and little risk to an unborn child if the mother is infected during pregnancy.

Mumps vaccine, a live virus, may be given at 1 year of age, but it is not known whether immunity at this age will persist to adulthood.

A combined measles - rubella - mumps vaccine is available as a single injection, giving immunity to all three diseases.

Smallpox

Smallpox vaccination is no longer recommended because the disease is now well controlled throughout the world, existing currently only in Ethiopia. There is also a significant risk of serious reactions to smallpox vaccination. Certain countries, a smallpox vaccination is required to enter some countries. If you are planning a foreign trip, check with your physician or health department regarding necessary vaccinations.

Most public health clinics will probably follow a strict routine of immunization, including rubella and mumps. Your personal physician may have his or her own ideas about patients' schedules. The four most essential immunizations — polio, tetanus, diphtheria, measles — must be given early. Physicians' opinions vary and patients' needs may vary with respect to immunization protection.

Program set for chronic stutterer

A unique program designed to aid the chronic stutterer has been initiated at the headquarters center of the Crippled Children's Society.

The group meets 7:30 p.m. Mondays at 7120 Franklin Ave. in Los Angeles for two to three hours.

The informal sessions are under the guidance of Raymond Lowe, director of speech pathology for the seven rehabilitation centers operated by the Crippled Children's Society.

Adults with stammers are welcome to attend the meetings where they can offer their experiences to others with the same problem. The primary purpose is to have social contact, share situations that create difficulties and thereby provide support to counteract the emotional isolation that all stutterers feel. Discussing mistakes as well as methods of surmounting problems become group experiences as the members exchange information with each other in an atmosphere of mutual understanding.

Lowe said the goal is not formal therapy, adding that, "hopefully participation in this group will have a therapeutic effect as we suggest to one another ways of handling our stuttering. We would have to have as many as possible join these sessions not only to benefit themselves but to provide input for others."

There is no charge for the program. For more information call (213) 874-3300.

75TH ANNIVERSARY — San Dimas United Methodist Church will celebrate its 75th Anniversary Nov. 21 with a potluck luncheon, melodrama performances, and congregational sing-along after morning services. Glancing through the church historical records are Carl Dean, lay leader who joined the church in 1922, Pearl Way, historian and 75-year members, and May Williams who began attending services at the church in 1911. The church was dedicated in 1901. (Photo by Lisa Hill)

First Brethren Church to celebrate anniversary

One of the oldest churches in La Verne will celebrate its 75th anniversary Sunday.

The history of the First Brethren Church, now located at 2600 White Ave., began at the turn of the century when a small group of believers held their first meeting in a drugstore building located on the southeast corner of Third and D streets.

In 1900 Dr. Martin Shively was called as pastor. In June of that year a new church site was purchased and a year later building was begun on the northeast corner of Third and E streets. This building was completed and dedicated in 1901.

In 1923 under the leadership of the pastor, Rev. Herbert Tay, the old building was razed and a new building erected and dedicated in November of that year.

The church was relocated in 1960 to its present site at the corner of White Avenue and Sixth Street in La Verne. White Memorial Chapel was built in 1970 and named in honor of a much-loved pastor, Dr. Elias White. The fellowship hall, Fischer Hall, was dedicated in memory of Rudolph Fischer, long-time lay

Church runners try to break records

Seventh-day Adventist runners plan to give the Glendora High School track at 1440 E. Broadway a great workout Sunday and Monday.

Some five relay teams, including 36 runners, will pound the school's quarter-mile oval track from 7:30 a.m. Sunday to 7:30 a.m. Monday in an attempt to break five world records for distance run in 24 hours by a church team.

Hulda Crooks, noted 80-year-old mountain hiker, will cut the ribbon during opening exercises Sunday, and Bill Emerton, famed Australian cross country runner, will fire the starting gun.

The teams will include a group of eight women (all past age 40); a minister's team of 10 men; a 10-man church team from Newbury Park; and three and five-man teams. All teams will run concurrently.

While the Covina Adventist Church pastor is not in the running, Covina church members will be rooting for former pastor Alexander Snyman, who will run with the minister's team. Snyman, now pastor

A special anniversary service will be held in White Memorial Chapel at 3 p.m. The program will feature recognition of former pastors and members. There will be a slide presentation representing the various events and people during the past 75 years. The Rev. Richard DeArmedy of the Grace Brethren Church of Orange and district moderator of the National Fellowship of Grace Brethren Churches will speak on "The Challenge of the Future."

With Low Everyday Prices from Super Foods to Health & Beauty...

You can't afford to shop anyplace but Ralphs

The Consumer Line
by Julie Grayson

I am happy to say that many customers are discovering that shopping for health and beauty needs while they are doing their food shopping is more than just a convenience at Ralphs.

Unlike some drug store and super-market chains who may regard these items as high profit products, Ralphs pricing policy on health and beauty items is like the other items we carry...low priced for volume selling.

Ralphs features a generous selection of low priced health and beauty items, including cosmetics, vitamins, shampoo and dental care. And just as with everything else Ralphs sells, satisfaction is guaranteed or your money is refunded.

As consumer representative at Ralphs, it's my job to see that Ralphs continues to offer you everyday low pricing throughout the store. So, if you have a question, a complaint or a price inquiry on anything you buy at Ralphs, including health and beauty items, give me a call. I'll get right on it and I'll get back to you with an answer.

Claremont Playhouse Film festival begins

Traditional entertainment enemies — film and the legitimate stage — have formed a coalition in the Pomona Valley to benefit both film buffs and stage lovers.

According to Alton Sanford, owner-operator of Griswold's Old School House (GOSH) in Claremont, Griswold's and La Verne College last Monday began sponsoring an eight-week festival of foreign, science fiction and classic films.

All profits will go to La Verne College's theater program.

Site of the festival will be the Claremont Playhouse in the GOSH complex at Indian Hill and Foothill Boulevards. Festival profits are pledged to the college's theater program which hopes to expand its theater department from an undergraduate course to a conservatory and eventually a repertory theater.

Sanford said the festival will offer alternatives to valley movie fans who now must choose between basically teen-oriented or X-rated film fare or travel to Los Angeles for high priced first-run features.

Dr. Armen Sarafian, La Verne College president, said Sanford's gift will greatly benefit the current LVC theater program and allow it to expand in the future.

Mondays are earmarked as foreign film nights with Tuesdays pegged for science fiction. Wednesday matinees will feature musicals and light comedy-drama followed by Wednesday night American classics.

Chairman Jack Woodruff, visiting professor of drama at LVC, said "the war between stage and screen is over. In this case they will be mutually supportive. It's good news for the valley."

Claremont Playhouse now offers legitimate theater Thursday through Saturday nights. Currently playing is Anthony Newley's "Stop the World, I Want to Get Off."

The theater will be dark each Sunday.

"It's a dream Don Clague (LVC vice president and dean of graduate studies) and I have had for several years," Sanford said. "We talked it over many times at Rotary Club and finally that dream has come true."

Tickets will be $1.20 per performance compared to an average valley film price of $2.50. Evening shows begin at 8 p.m. and matinees at 2 p.m.

Monday night

Kicking off the second week of the series 8 p.m. Monday will be director Francois Truffaut's 1962 classic, "Jules and Jim" with Jeanne Moreau and Oskar Werner.

Other foreign films on the following five Mondays include:

—1952 Oscar winner "Rashomon," a Japanese film set 1,200 years ago in feudal Japan, Nov. 22.

—Sir Laurence Olivier's interpretation of Shakespeare's "Richard the Third," Nov. 29.

—Cannes Film Festival's 1956-57 winner "The Seventh Seal," an Ingmar Bergman classic, Dec. 13.

—Truffaut's "Shoot the Piano Player," Dec. 20.

—Bergman's "The Virgin Spring," an allegory, Dec. 27.

Tuesday night

Tuesday's science fiction addicts will see Edgar Allan Poe's "The Pit and the Pendulum" 8 p.m. Nov. 16.

Other science fiction films include:

—Low Ayres in the 1964 classic "Donovan's Brain," Nov. 23.

—Poe's "The Raven" with Boris Karloff, Peter Lorre and Vincent Price, Nov. 30.

—1970's medical prognostication starring Terrance Stamp, "The Mind of Mr. Soames," Dec. 14.

—1958's classic chiller, "The Fly," with Vincent Price and Herbert Marshall, Dec. 21.

—Vincent Price as "The Last Man on Earth," Dec. 28.

Wednesday matinees

Wednesday 2 p.m. matinees will begin the second week Nov. 17 with Rex Harrison and Lilli Palmer in the 1952 version of "The Four Poster."

Other matinees include:

—1945 umpty-umpty remake of "State Fair" with Dana Andrews, Jeanne Crain and Dick Haymes, Nov. 14.

—Agatha Christie's mystery chiller "And Then There Were None," with Barry Fitzgerald and Walter Huston, Dec. 1.

—Gary Cooper and Jean Arthur in 1936's comic allegory "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," Dec. 15.

—Winner of six Academy Awards, the 1968 musical version of Dicken's Oliver Twist, "Oliver," Dec. 22.

—A nostalgia trip with a double feature of "Charlie Chan at the Opera" and "Charlie Chan at the Circus," Dec. 29.

Wednesday night

Wednesday night classics will continue Nov. 17 at 8 p.m. with the 1939 classic "Wuthering Heights" with Sir Laurence Olivier and Merle Oberon.

—Orson Welles' starring, Other classics include: producing and directing the 1948 version of "Macbeth," Nov. 24.

—Director John Ford's 1940 Academy winner "The Long Voyage Home" with

—An evening performance of "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town" following the same show that matinee, Dec. 15.

—Alfred Hitchcock's 1954 chiller, "Dial M for Murder," with Ray Milland and Grace Kelly, Dec. 22.

FESTIVAL OF FILMS — Alton (Sandy) Sanford (left), owner and operator of Griswold's Claremont Playhouse, discusses the new season of foreign, science fiction and classic films which will be shown at the Playhouse for the next seven weeks, with Duke Stroud, La Verne College coordinator of films for the festival. All proceeds from the showings, which begin Monday, will benefit the LVC theater department.

Foster Grandparent Program

Seniors offer love

Sixty-nine-year-old Carrie Sanger is a Foster Grandparent at Pacific State Hospital in Pomona. She has been spending two hours or more a day, five days a week, with Buddy, one of her two foster grandchildren.

And she's been doing this for more than nine years.

Mrs. Sanger, who lives in Ontario, says, "I taught my 'grandbuddy' to ride a tricycle and now I'm working on a two-wheel bike — which is not going very well at the moment. Pumping the swing was the most difficult for him, but now he is doing it — just swinging so high and looking so happy."

Mrs. Sanger has accomplished a great deal more with Buddy than just teaching him to swing or ride a bike, according to Ruth Hughes, project coordinator for the Foster Grandparent Program at Pacific State.

"A good example of what a Foster Grandparent can accomplish with a developmentally disabled child is the work that Carrie Sanger has done with Buddy," she said. "Nine years ago he was almost hopeless — a little boy who no one wanted to bother with. But Carrie has taught him to feed himself, stay neat and clean, and has worked with him like she would with her own grandchild."

Charles Watson, 69, a retired heavy equipment operator of Walnut has been a Foster Grandparent at Pacific State for nine years. Like the others, he puts in 20 hours a week for a stipend of $1.60 per hour, a noon meal, and $1.75 per day for transportation.

"I do it because I like it," said Watson. "I like it very much. It helps me when my monthly bills come due; but just working with the kids helps me and while I'm here it helps the kids."

Catherine McKeown of Pomona, 63 years old, reports with love and pride that her Billy is doing well after an operation on his back.

"He is so responsive and such a good boy," she said. "He is small but when he gets excited he makes rabbit noises at me."

She is equally fond of her other "grandchild," Shirley, who "laughs and giggles at funny noises."

"If I quack like a duck or bark like a dog," said Mrs. McKeown, "she thinks it's funny. We enjoy each other on our outings."

There are 111 Foster Grandparents at Pacific State Hospital, 27 of them men.

"I wish we had more men because we have so many requests from the units for grandfathers," Mrs. Hughes commented.

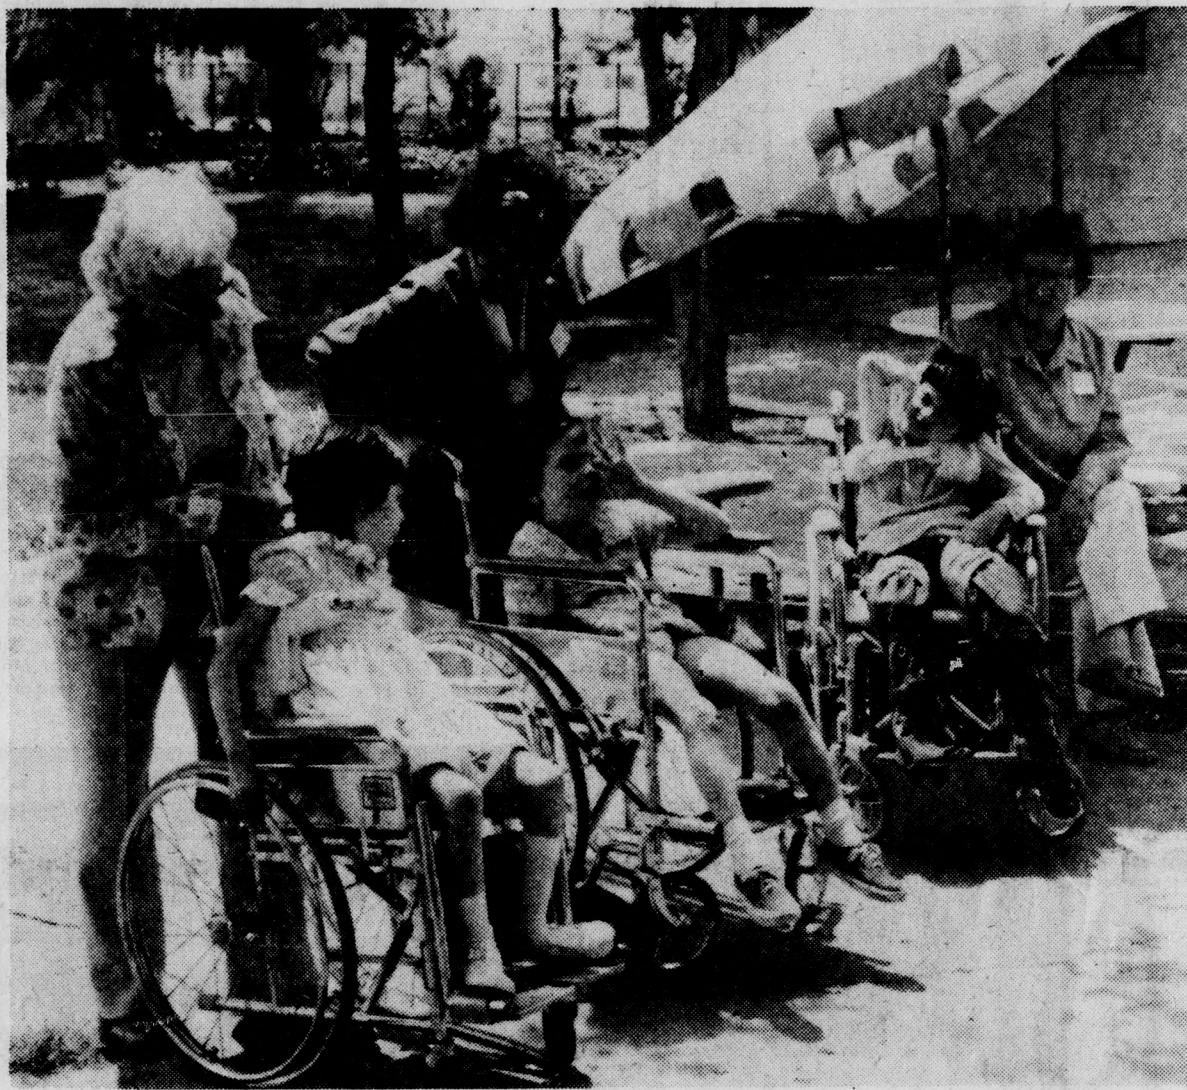

Nationally, there are more than 13,000 volunteers enrolled in the program, which is administered by ACTION, the federal agency for volunteer service. According to the Los Angeles district office, they work in a variety of settings, which include institutions for the emotionally disturbed and physically handicapped.

In most cases they serve four hours per day, five days a week, dividing each day between two youngsters. They may assist in physical or speech therapy, help out at mealtime, or lend a hand with homework.

But their main task is to behave as true grandparents, giving love, tenderness and understanding.

FOSTER GRANDPARENT — Sixty-eight year old Elizabeth Atkin of Upland helps her "grandchild" with an afternoon snack at Pacific State Hospital, Pomona. She is one of 111 Foster Grandparents who put in four hours a day, five days a week at the hospital, providing one-to-one care and attention to the developmentally disabled children.

FRESH AIR AND SUNSHINE — Foster Grandparents (from left) Elizabeth Atkin of Upland, Ella Stelling of Rosemead, and Helen Kline of West Covina take their "grandchildren" out for some fresh air and sunshine at Pacific State Hospital, Pomona. Nationally, there are more than 13,000 volunteers enrolled in the Foster Grandparent program which is administered by ACTION, the federal agency for volunteer service. For more information call (213) 824-7742.

They find, according to Mrs. Hughes, that by serving the needs of others they enhance their self-respect and enjoy the feeling of being useful.

"They bring so much to these children," she said, "and at the same time they benefit so much from it themselves. They are not here just as a job. To them this means something. They have two children waiting for them every day, and they have a phenomenal attendance record. They have to be awfully sick not to come."

The Foster Grandparents at Pacific State come from many of the surrounding communities. Five of them come in every day from Los Angeles. Most ride in car pools, but some bus service was recently made available.

"I think this is the very best program that has even been devised by anybody," Mrs. Hughes said emphatically. "We try to teach the children to do as much for themselves as they possibly are able to learn, and the ultimate goal is to get them back into the community as productive people."

ACTION information concerning the Foster Grandparents or other programs such as the Peace Corps or VISTA is available by calling (213) 824-7742.

Sometimes I have to convince them that they are sick enough to stay home, for their own good, but they would much rather be here. When they don't show up the children miss them — and they miss the children just as much."

Pacific State is one of nine state hospitals under the California Department of Health and the first one to have a Foster Grandparent Program, which began there nine years ago, co-sponsored by ACTION.

After the first five years, when the Foster Grandparent complement at Pacific State had grown to 59 volunteers, the program was expanded to all nine hospitals.

"We now have 433 positions within the nine hospitals in our program and we continually have requests for more grandparents," Mrs. Hughes said.

The youngest volunteer at Pacific State is 63 (60 is the minimum age for the program) and the oldest 92.

"We have a great many in their 80s," Mrs. Hughes reports, "but you would never know it. You know, they are some of my youngest people."

Something new inside

There's something extra in today's newspaper, and I thought you might like to know a little more about it.

From now on the six weekly newspapers printed by Bonita Publications will have an extra classified advertising section.

We will still have our own classified section, which covers the communities of Diamond Bar, Rowland Heights, Walnut, San Dimas, La Verne, Cucamonga, Alta Loma, Upland and Montclair.

And you can still place an ad in this classified section for $1 for four lines.

But we have added to our Los Angeles County weeklies the Wednesday classified advertising section of the Pomona Progress Bulletin.

To our San Bernardino County weeklies we have added the Wednesday classified section of the Ontario Daily Report.

We have done this to attract more business, and to increase the effectiveness of ads placed in the two dailies.

So there are several options for those people who want to advertise effectively in the Pomona Valley - West End areas.

You can place a $1 ad in all six Bonita weeklies to get good saturation coverage in the "rim" communities of the valley.

Or you may advertise in Wednesday's edition of the Progress Bulletin and have your ad picked up in the San Dimas Press, La Verne Leader, and The Bulletin (Diamond Bar, Walnut and Rowland Heights) for an additional seven cents per line.

You can also advertise in Wednesday's edition of The Daily Report and have your ad picked up in the Montclair Tribune, Upland News, and Cucamonga Times for an extra five cents per line.

Or you can do all three.

To place an ad for the weeklies only you should call Bonita Publications, (714) 984-2468.

To place a classified ad in Wednesday's Progress Bulletin, and the six Los Angeles County weeklies you should call (714) 622-1201.

And to place an ad in The Daily Report and the three West End weeklies you can call (714) 983-3511.

How to beat the numbers racket during the rush hour.

OPENS OCT. 25

Now there's an easy way for you to make up for lost time on the San Bernardino Freeway—by taking the Busway and two passengers along for the ride.

We've opened up the Busway to encourage car-pooling, as part of our on-going program to conserve energy and make the most of what we have.

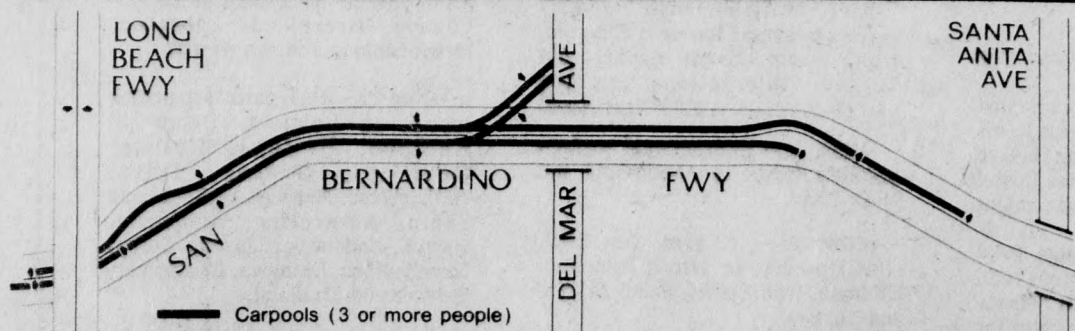

Starting Oct. 25, Mondays through Fridays, during the rush hours of 6 a.m.-10 a.m. and 3 p.m.-7 p.m., any car (trucks and autos with trailers prohibited) with three or more people is eligible to use the San Bernardino Busway.

Where and how:

- WESTBOUND, entrances, 1) west of Santa Anita Ave., and 2) Del Mar Avenue Busway On-Ramp; exit only past Long Beach Freeway.
- EASTBOUND, entrance, west of Long Beach Freeway; exits, 1) Del Mar Avenue Busway Off-Ramp, and 2) east of Rosemead Blvd.

Remember, it takes only 3 to car-pool—a quick way to beat the numbers racket during the rush hour.

Why don't you car-pool your resources—you'll discover that sharing yields fast dividends, not to mention the inside track.

NOTICE OF HEARING OF PROPOSED ANNEXATION OF TRACT NO. 8861 TO COUNTY SERVICE AREA NO. 50, IMPROVEMENT ZONE "A", AND RESOLUTION OF THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE COUNTY OF SAN BERNARDINO, STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

On Monday, October 25, 1976, on motion of Supervisor Mayfield, duly seconded by Supervisor Townsend, and carried, the following resolution is adopted:

SECTION 1. The Board of Supervisors of the County of San Bernardino hereby finds and determines:

(a) That proceedings for annexation of certain described territory to Improvement Zone "A" of County Service Area No. 50 were initiated by this Board after receiving an informal indication of public support and desire for such action.

(b) That the exterior boundaries of the territory proposed to be annexed to the said Improvement Zone are as follows:

ANNEXATION TO IMPROVEMENT ZONE "A" OF COUNTY SERVICE AREA NO. 50

Tract No. 8861, in the County of San Bernardino, State of California, as per map recorded in Book 124 of Maps, pages 38 and 39, records of said County, described as follows:

Beginning at the center line intersection of Carnelian Street and Wilson Avenue.

Thence Easterly along said centerline of Wilson Avenue, a distance of 1388.58 feet;

Thence South 0° 35' 33" East, 663.52 feet;

Thence South 89° 36' 09" West, 1175.21 feet;

Thence North 0° 35' 26" West, 230.25 feet;

Thence South 89° 33' 26" West, 183.23 feet to the center line of said Carnelian Street.

Thence Northerly along said center line to the POINT OF BEGINNING.

Contains 19.8 acres.

(c) That the territory hereinabove described is in County Service Area No. 50, which is in the unincorporated portion of this County;

(d) That the territory hereinabove described is in need of parkway tree maintenance services and will benefit thereby, that said services should be extended to such territory, and that said services can most conveniently be provided to such territory by annexation;

(e) That the County Surveyor and the County Assessor have reviewed the proposed boundary description pursuant to Chapter 3 of Division 2, Title 6 of the Government Code of the State of California. Their report states that the boundaries are definite and certain as described, and do not split any lines of ownership as shown on the last equalized assessment roll or by documents of record.

SECTION 2. The Board of Supervisors hereby resolves and orders:

(a) That a public hearing shall be held on Monday, November 22, 1976, at the hour of 2:00 p.m., at the Chambers of the Board of Supervisors at the County Civic Building, 175 West Fifth Street, San Bernardino, California, to consider said proposed annexation;

(b) That the Clerk of the Board shall certify to the passage of this resolution and cause the same to be published once pursuant to Government Code Section 6061 in the CUCAMONGA TIMES, a newspaper of general circulation in the County Service Area deemed most likely to give notice of said action to the persons entitled to said notice.
